RE: IPG Price Adjustment Announcement

Dear Valued Customer,

Recent developments in the Middle East have significantly disrupted global energy markets, as well as the supply of raw materials and freight services both in North America and internationally. The resulting uncertainty and increased risk within the industry are attributed to mounting pressures on supply chains, particularly those involved with resin-based materials.

Suppliers across North America and globally have begun implementing price increases, with further adjustments possible as circumstances evolve. In response to these rapid changes, IPG is closely monitoring market conditions and remains dedicated to ensuring consistent supply, high product quality, and attentive support for our customers.
