

March 5, 2026

Dear Valued Customer,

Recent geopolitical tensions in the Middle East have caused significant supply disruptions affecting global polyethylene markets. As a result, the market is rapidly rebalancing supply, leading to a sharp and immediate increase in pricing for North American-produced polyethylene. Our resin suppliers have announced a substantial price increase that is expected to be implemented this month.

In response to this March resin increase, Mercury Plastics will implement an increase up to 10% (depending on product) effective with all new orders placed on or after March 23, 2026.

Any purchase orders already placed with Mercury Plastics will not be affected by this increase. All new orders must call for normal delivery lead times.

We value our partnership and will keep you informed as conditions evolve. Your Mercury Plastics sales representative will be in contact with you to answer any of your questions. We understand the burden price increases place on all of our businesses and thank you for your continued support and loyalty.

Sincerely,
