

March 31, 2026

Dear Valued Customer,

Ongoing global supply chain disruptions, energy market volatility, and continued production constraints have significantly impacted the availability and cost of polyethylene globally. These factors are tightening supply across North America and driving rapid upward pressure on resin pricing. Our suppliers have announced a further price increase for April as market conditions remain highly dynamic.

In response to this additional resin increase, Mercury Plastics will implement an increase up to 20% (depending on product) effective with all new orders placed on or after April 20, 2026.

Any purchase orders already placed with Mercury Plastics will not be affected by this increase. All new orders must call for normal delivery lead times.

Due to severely constrained resin availability and ongoing supply uncertainty, Mercury Plastics will strictly limit order volumes and allocation. Order acceptance will be prioritized based on available resin supply, and we may be unable to fulfill all requested quantities.

We recognize the significant impact this increase may have on your business and do not take this decision lightly. These actions are necessary to ensure continuity of supply in an extremely constrained market. Your Mercury Plastics sales representative is available to work closely with you to help navigate these changes and provide the most up-to-date information possible. We sincerely appreciate your understanding, continued partnership, and support.

Sincerely,
